Statement of the Association's Purpose

The Stringtown Quilters Guild is a group of quilters dedicated to the art form who are committed to keeping the practice of quilting alive. This purpose is accomplished by holding demonstrations, bringing in guest speakers, and instructors to educate quilters of all experience levels at their monthly meetings; by promoting and preserving the historical significance of fine quilts; stimulating interest among members of the community in the art form; and exchanging ideas and encouraging high standards of the craft amongst its members.

The Guild's members have and continue to donate their quilts to many local charitable and non-profit organizations. These organizations include: the New Hope Pregnancy Center, Boone County CASA, the LifeSet Program, the Brighton Recovery Center for Women, the Down Syndrome Association of Greater Cincinnati (DSAGC), Benchmark Family Services, School Resource Officers serving Boone County Schools, the Northern Kentucky Homeless Shelter, Bluegrass Care Navigators, the ALS Association of Northern Kentucky, Carenet Pregnancy Services, St. Elizabeth Hospice, the NICU at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Sunrise Children's Services, the Salvation Army, the Ronald McDonald House, Alzheimer Quilts, Wrap Them in Love, the House Calls Program at St. Luke, the Mercy Maternity Home, Hope Ministries, Sew for the Cure, the Boone County Women's Crisis Center, the Contemporary Arts Center of Cincinnati, Grief Quilts, St. Elizabeth Women's Wellness Center, Woodspring Nursing Home, the Boone County Police Cruiser Quilts for Kids, the Diocesan Catholic Children's Home, and many more in the future.

By educating the community about the art form, exchanging ideas with their members, stimulating interest in taking up the practice in the community, and donating their finished products to organizations that help those in need, the Stringtown Quilters Guild will keep the practice alive and restore the passion of the art form within the community.
